

Welcome to the SMU Geothermal Lab newsletter for November. Hello to new members! This month we have news on our next conference along with congratulations to new geothermal leaders at the Geothermal Technologies Office and the National Renewable Energy Laboratory.

2016 SMU Geothermal Lab

Cathy Chickering Pace moderated the session "Heating Up: Distributed Generation and the Geothermal Market" at the recent TREIA GridNEXT conference in Houston, Texas. Loy Sneary of Gulf Coast Green Energy and Marian Higgins of TAMU both presented with Cathy. More information:

Good luck to Ben Phrampus on his PhD thesis defense on Friday November 20th. His thesis is titled Gas Hydrates as a Proxy for Contemporary Climate Change & Shallow Heat Flow on the US East Coast & North Slope of Alaska.

Joe Batir and Cathy Chickering Pace will be on the Shootin' the Breeze radio show on Saturday November 21 and Saturday November 28 at 9:00 AM on Talk Radio 1190 AM. We will post audio to our website once it is available.

Geothermal News and Notes

Congratulations to Dr. Susan Hamm who has been appointed Acting Director of the Geothermal Technologies Office. Dr. Hamm will lead the Office's overall strategic, technical, and project oversight of cutting-edge technologies designed to advance geothermal as a key contributor to the U.S. energy portfolio. Learn more about the Geothermal Technologies Office at <http://energy.gov/eere/geothermal/about>.

Congratulations to Henry (Bud) Johnston, the new Laboratory Program Manager for the Geothermal Technologies Program at the
